

Why Are We Still Watching and Waiting?

Moving beyond the conventional in the modern glaucoma procedure environment

The interventional moment in glaucoma has arrived. Surgical and pharmaceutical advances have enabled doctors from across subspecialties to rethink the drops-first default and take back control of the disease. In this symposium, leading voices in the interventional movement lay out the data behind the interventional glaucoma movement—and how doctors of any experience level can leverage these disruptive technologies to intervene earlier and protect sight proactively.

Faculty

Moderator

Christine Funke

MD
United States

Imran Masood

BSc (Hons), MB ChB,
MRCS(Ed), FRCOphth
United Kingdom

Antoine Labbé

MD, PhD, HDR
France

Karl Mercieca

MD, PGCME,
FRCOphth, FEBOS-GL
Germany

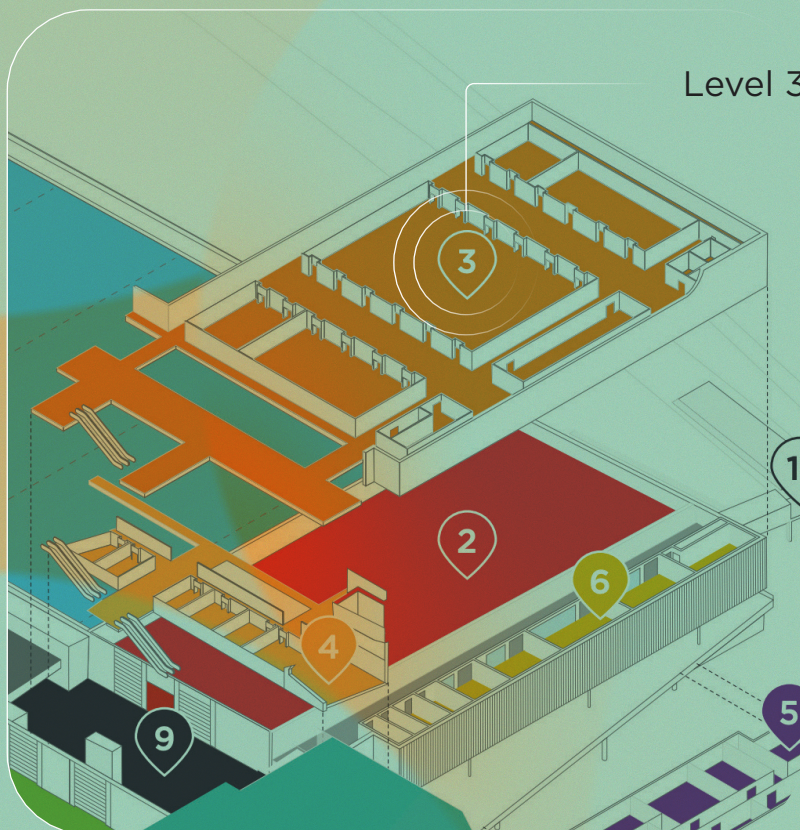

ESCRS
London '26
Symposium

Scan to Register Now

→ ESCRS
London '26
Symposium

Why Are We Still Watching and Waiting?

Level 3 | ICC Capital Suite 7/8 (Level 3)

Date

Saturday
September 12th

Time

4:30pm
to 5:30pm

Location

Excel London,
Capital Suite 7/8

